FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

What is an Independent School?

Independent schools are private elementary and secondary schools that are governed by an independent board of trustees. Free of outside control and funding, they are able to set their own standards and mission, and serve particular families and children. Some work with the academically or artistically gifted, others with average to above-average children, others with learning-disabled or those with unsatisfactory previous school experiences. Many offer boarding as well as day programs. Every AISNE member school is accredited by a nationally-recognized process which assures quality and accountability. One of the schools in our Directory may be the right choice for your family.

New Opportunities...

At its root, “opportunity” means “favorable wind.” More than anything, you want your children to have opportunities in life, to have those favorable winds that will take them where their nature, experiences, passions, and dreams guide them. What kind of opportunities will your child have in independent schools? While each school has its own unique combination of offerings, here are some of the most common and most important. Students have the opportunity to:

- . test themselves against high standards of academic excellence;
- . form enduring, meaningful relationships with caring adults;
- . try different sports and play on an interscholastic team without being a superstar;
- . experience the arts and music as an integral part of education;
- . learn how to be an effective leader (and there are many kinds of leadership);
- . make life-long friends (parents will make them too);
- . learn to give of themselves through community service;
- . travel with school groups and even study abroad;
- . experience a diverse community of students and adults, drawn from a wide range of communities and countries.

Great Teachers

You remember forever the great teachers, the ones who went out of their way to know you, support you, and encourage you to do things you didn't think you could do. We still feel, even decades later, the affection and gratitude they inspired in us. Of course, there are good and great teachers everywhere, but independent schools intentionally create an environment where good teachers can become great teachers. How does a school do that? A school hires for the best and then:

- . Creates small classes.
- . Gives teachers the autonomy to shape the program to suit the needs and interests of the particular group of students within the structure of your mission and values.
- . Provides funds for professional development.
- . Rewards innovation and growth.
- . Nurtures the qualities you prize, such as deep knowledge of subject and teaching, dedication, passion, and the capacity to engage and inspire.
- . Frees them from the constraints created by over-dependence on standardized testing to measure achievement and aptitude.

- Helps them build real partnerships with parents.

Independent school teachers understand that knowing their students is a prerequisite for becoming a great teacher.

How and When Do We Apply?

Families apply to a school after receiving materials from its office of admission and visiting the campus. The application process may require testing, observation, transcripts and written statements, letters of recommendation, and in the case of those seeking financial aid, a completed statement of need. The most important step in the process for schools is to learn about the child, so that the right match can be made.

Most schools begin accepting applications for the next school year in the fall, and ask that families complete the application process by mid-January or early February. Candidates are notified in early March. Other schools may have later application opportunities, but in all cases, early application is advisable, particularly for those seeking financial aid.

What services does AISNE offer to families?

AISNE's website lists over 175 independent schools. Families can search by school name, state, city, grade level, school type, and even zipcode. Go to "Find a School" www.aisne.org. The "Find a School" section also features a chronological, searchable listing of school open houses and a searchable database of summer programs. In the spring and summer of each year AISNE maintains a list of schools that have openings in different grades. To access this information call us at AISNE, 781-843-8440. During the course of the year AISNE sponsors school fairs, opportunities for families to meet with a variety of schools under one roof.
